"Exclusive Jewels is a must-enter shop every time you go down Charles Street! Alissa Durow Eck, the owner, offers personal service that matches you to some of the most unique and beautiful purchases you'll ever make. I can't resist that open door!"

~Carolee Howell

"I visited Exclusive Jewels out of curiosity while just walking on Charles Street. Immediately, I felt welcome. I ended up bringing my jewelry pieces to repair and for consignment. What is great is that the owner Alissa treated my pieces with great care, regardless of value. She stayed in contact with me to inform about the progress. There are many stores on Charles Street, but if you like jewelry and art, appreciate competence and a friendly atmosphere, you should visit Exclusive Jewels."

Alissa Durow Eck, owner of Exclusive Jewels grew up in the jewelry business. Using her upbringing in her parents' jewelry and antique store, Wooden Skate Jewelry and Gems in Okemos Michigan, Alissa Eck mirrors her legacy by offering one on one, personal attention to all of her clients. As a child, she would watch her parents advise and supply special care to each and every customer. She opened Exclusive Jewels Gallery in 2012 to bring her family's tradition and passion for jewelry to Boston. With her love for the new and old combined together, Alissa provides antique treasures as well as modern statement pieces. At Exclusive Jewels, Alissa also draws from the seven years of sales and management experience she received at the House of Cartier. Alissa earned her Bachelor's degree from Northeastern in 2003 and a Graduate of Diamond Degree from GIA in 2011.

Exclusive Jewels displays a wide range of luxury goods while focusing on fine jewelry and art. Alissa plans to continue her family legacy and keep the Durow name current and relevant. Her family still provides an influence today with their extensive knowledge and connections in the trade. Alissa plans to continue her significant ability to express her eclectic style and brand in her Beacon Hill surroundings. Exclusive Jewels hopes to build long-lasting relationships with their clients and grow to be your neighborhood jeweler!
